

HANDOUT

1.5 Two of a kind

CARDS

You are an old person walking in the street. You are very happy because you've just become a grandfather/grandmother. When you meet other people you tell them about your wonderful little grandchild.

You are a little child. Ypu are at the beach with your parents. While building a sand castle, you are often fighting with your sister.

You're standing in front of a broken mirror and trying to get shaved. You can hardly see anything in the mirror, you have to move your head frequently to be able to see all the parts of your face better.

You're an elderly lady looking at the shop windows. You are checking your wallet to see if you have got enough money to buy yourself a new jacket.

You've just missed the train to work and you are worried. You're already late for work. You're impatiently looking for a taxi number in your phone.

You're having your portrait painted. You find it very boring to wait for the painter to finish the painting. Your feet are itching.

You're drinking coffee at a café. A bee is disturbing you. You're anxious because you are allergic to bee stings.

You're pregnant in the 9th month, you are getting on a crowded bus. Someone offers you a seat. Finally!

You are going home from school, saying goodbye to a friend with whom you have recently quarrelled. You are feeling a bit sad, but soon you get comforted by the music that you are listening to (hard rock).

You are a tourist in a small town that you are visiting for the first time. You urgently need a dentist but you cannot find any information on the internet. You ask for help from people walking in the street.

You are climbing a high mountain. You are exhausted and thirsty. You finally find a mountain spring and drink.

It is quite late at night and you are waiting for a bus to get home. The bus is late. You should let your parents know. You want to grab your phone but you realize that you have lost it. You have to ask someone at the bus station to lend you his/her phone so that you can call your parents.